

3,300 HEAR OSBORNE DIG INTO WHITMAN

Police Have Trouble Handling
Crowd; Ex-Convicts Applaud Speech.

CLINTON A "HELL HOLE"

Governor Called It Best Prison
—Tells of Politics in Appointments.

Charles Gov. Whitman with indignation and had faith Thomas Mott Osborne, ex-convict, in the first of his campaign addresses last night at Cooper Union added the accusation that recent escapes at Sing Sing had been engineered for the deliberate purpose of discrediting the new methods of administration in the prison.

"I can't prove it," he shouted to the audience that jammed the hall and aisles and crowded the platform, "but I have on good authority from Albany the information that the last two escapes were framed to discredit the Welfare League and make an excuse for the orders of Superintendent of Prisons James Carter."

Osborne said the reason for his resignation was the three orders that Carter recently issued, the last of which required all life and long terms to be locked inside the walls. He accused Whitman of dragging the prison issue into politics and repeated a frequently made assertion that the Governor had broken a pledge that he would support the Welfare League and prison reform methods.

Osborne was received with great enthusiasm by the audience. Many were ex-convicts. The chairman, John Butler, finished his sentence ten months ago.

The police had trouble handling the big crowd which tried to force its way into the hall. Two thousand finally got into the auditorium, which has seating capacity for about 1,300. An overflow meeting was held in the street.

The warden did not hesitate to mention the indignities which had been brought against him and intimated they were part of the plot to destroy his influence and force his resignation. He charged the letter published by friends of Whitman, which asserted the Governor had given Osborne a fair trial. This, he said, he had not received.

Osborne created a sensation when he turned to the subject of Clinton Prison. "I resigned so I could tell the truth about this prison," he said. "I was not allowed to say anything while warden because of Superintendent Carter's orders that there was to be no more publicity given by the warden."

It is time that the prison is known for the hell hole that it is. And yet Gov. Whitman complimented Clinton as the best prison in New York.

Osborne also attacked Whitman for praising Great Meadow prison at Comstock as a model for the country. He added that the Governor had never visited Sing Sing while he, Osborne, was warden, and that the Governor did not believe in the Welfare League. He charged that Whitman wanted Warden Rattigan of Auburn removed and one of two candidates selected by local politicians appointed. He said Superintendent Carter would assent to neither candidate.

Osborne challenged the Governor to say what he meant by prison reform and whether he stood for Clinton or Sing Sing.

You have never stood for the Mutual Welfare League in Sing Sing," he said. "Are you going to stand for it now? Do you stand for one thing in one prison and another thing in another prison?"

Warden spoke alone similar lines at the Harris Theatre after the matinee of "Under Sentence," a prison reform play.

Irving Place Gets Tolstoy Drama
With Bandbox Players.

The actors who have been at the Bandbox Theatre while "The Living Corpse" was running at the Irving Place Theatre, tonight last night while the Bandbox Theatre received the gay play in repertory, which is a masterpiece of taste as to which the German theatres got the better of the change.

Tolstoy's gloomy play has been acted here before in spite of the announcement to the contrary. It was played in the Yiddish theatres soon after it was acted first in Russia. But it has had hitherto no such efficient representation as the German actors gave it last night.

4,000 AT BAZAAR ON TIPPERARY NIGHT

Officers Say the $250,000 for Irish Rebels' Kin Will Be Raised.

MRS. GAYNOR ATTRACTION

Sings Several Songs of Erin—Dissatisfaction Over Haste
in Holding Affair.

A quarter of a million dollars is the sum the projectors of the Irish bazaar set themselves to raise for the dependents of the men who fell in the rebellion of Easter week, those who were executed and the hundreds who have lost home and employment through their connection with it.

Officers of the bazaar said last night that they had hopes of realizing their goal. It was Tipperary night, and the crowd was larger than it has been any night since the opening Saturday. About 4,000 came in the course of the evening, and though this falls far below the attendance at the German bazaar it made Madison Square Garden seem quite popular.

German day, Monday, the receipts totaled $6,000, which does not include the donations. The Staats-Zeitung noticed the bazaar people yesterday that they had received $2,000 for the Irish cause. Many checks came in yesterday, but the auditor hadn't counted them up as closing time.

Mrs. William J. Gaynor, widow of the former Mayor, was the attraction in the concert hall last evening. She sang an air from the opera "Jean de Sore" and several old songs of Erin, including "Killarney."

Bazaar officers are regretting that they got the affair so quickly. In the haste to beat the Italian bazaar to this thing was arranged so hastily that there has not been enough advertising. The number of helpers is insufficient, and none of the preparations are complete. The first few days the attendance was almost nothing, largely because people didn't know about it. It is said, too, that Jeremiah O'Leary's controversy with President Wilson has hurt the bazaar. John J. O'Leary, head of the bazaar, is Jeremiah's brother. Prominent Irish politicians are conspicuous by their absence at Madison Square Garden this week.
